

2024 RATES & EXCLUSIVE OFFERS

Valid 1 January - 31 December 2024

Tswalu Kalahari Reserve has the lowest ratio of beds to space in a privately protected area in South Africa. Choosing one of our three camps is less about the obvious luxuries you've come to expect on safari - high thread-count sheets, fine wines, and gourmet food - and more about the rare privilege of enjoying exclusive access to 114,000 hectares (282,000 acres) of private wilderness on the southernmost edge of the Kalahari. From exhilarating predator-prey encounters to rare sightings of some of the most elusive species in Africa, every safari is privately guided without any other guests or vehicles besides our own to dilute your experience.

For a long-term conservation endeavour to remain viable takes much more than philanthropy and passion. By choosing Tswalu, every guest becomes part of an inspiring conservation story backed by a 30-year legacy of protecting one of southern Africa's last remaining wild places while positively impacting those who call it home.

For every night you spend with us, a significant sum goes directly towards offsetting the cost of conservation - what it takes to manage a privately protected area in a remote region. With your continued support, we can double down on our mission to harness the net-positive impact of luxury, low-footprint safaris to sustain the planet and its people, while mitigating climate change and biodiversity loss. In return, as our guest you will experience an incomparable safari defined by the freedom and flexibility to explore this vast, off-the-beaten-track destination in private, at your own pace.

Your complete guest experience includes:

- Access to 114,000 hectares (282,000 acres) of private wilderness
- Private 4x4 game-viewing vehicle with a dedicated guide and tracker per booking
- Privately guided drives, nature walks, rock art walks, animal tracking, and birding
